

MILLFIELD

To whom it may concern,

It was fantastic to work with Peter Such on a recent Millfield cricket webinar set up to help support the development of our spinners. The 90 minute session covered technical fundamentals, the craft of bowling spin, tactical awareness as well as discussion spin related mentality and psychology strategies.

We also invited our keepers and captains into the session to enhance their understanding and awareness of spin bowling, the tactics associated with spin bowling and the mentality that is required by spinners in order to thrive and survive within the modern game.

The webinar was highly interactive involving elements of presentation, use of video analysis and Zoom breakout rooms to facilitate peer discussion and feedback. The level of tactical discussion was of a very high level and this was largely down to how comfortable Peter made the 20 participants feel at the outset of the session and the fact that he encouraged player interaction from the outset.

The “proof in the pudding” has been the continuation of those discussions since the webinar and the ease that players have connected back to the key themes of the webinar during their subsequent 1:1 coaching sessions with their respective School and Club coaches.

I would have no hesitation in recommending Peter to any school, club, county or coaching associations as we can all learn from Peter’s vast experience both as player and a coach as we look to develop England’s next Graeme Swann, Adil Rashid, Moeen Ali, Jack Leach, Dom Bess and dare I say it.....Shane Warne.

Thank you, Peter, for such an excellent session with the Millfield pupils and coaches.

Kind regards

Garas
